SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

Dedication

It is with pride that we, the class of 1956, dedicate our annual to one whose wisdom and labors, in great part, have made possible this fine medical school from which we now graduate. We appreciate the difficulties encountered in the transition of a two-year school of medical sciences to a full four-year school of medicine. He worked untiringly for this, and it was successfully achieved with the opening of our school.

His ability as a physician and as an educator is recognized—even in foreign countries. We have joked about his “pleasure trip” to Egypt, but, we also have been extremely proud of his achievements there.

Despite his numerous activities, he has performed well those duties which have been of primary concern to us. As eager but anxious freshmen, we met him first during orientation. He quickly put us at ease, assured us that we had an excellent chance of graduating, and clearly outlined what was expected of us. His informal, personal approach left us feeling that we had someone who would stick by us. We realize now that this feeling was not mistaken. He has been flexible, liberal, and considerate of our educational problems.

Without loss of dignity, he has joined us in fun, has borne the brunt of some of our horseplay, and has proven that he, too, can be quick with a good joke.

We have been happy at Bowman Gray, and we have learned good medicine. We feel that, in large measure, he is responsible. He does not demand or ask for respect and honor, but he deserves ours. Thus, we gratefully dedicate our annual to our dean, Dr. Coy C. Carpenter.

Memoirs of the Senior Class

Our story began on a cloudy morning in October, 1952, when we assembled to be oriented into the mysteries of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine. To launch us properly on our medical school careers, Dean Carpenter promised to bail each of us out of jail one time (only), Mr. Parker acquainted us with the woes of the high financier, and Jim Sandberg introduced all of us to each other.

Having been properly introduced, we blazed into histology with vigor, determination, and diarrhea. There we were when, for the first time, the voice of the turtle was heard throughout the lab, saying, "Can you sharpen it up a little, Charles?"

Biochem was an interesting sideline during our histology quarter. We observed the time-honored traditions of fighting for front row seats, feeding ze rats, agitating Marge, eating prunes and Levine tubes, and trying to look intelligent during the lectures on hemoglobin carriage of oxygen. The first quarter was really the longest and most uncertain of them all.

When we started anatomy (40 pages behind in our assignments) we were led a merry chase by the turtles, D. J. Cunningham, and the green mold. Those who think of anatomy as a static science would be interested in some of the things we learned about right-sided spleens and the branches of the vagus artery.

Anatomy behind us, we changed our surroundings completely and came under the influence of Green, Denison, Spencer, Little, Truitt, Parsons, Mathews, et al. Our physiology quizzes were gems of wit, to wit: "If (A) is related to (B) but not as cause and effect, then (C) is true when (D) is the same as (E) unless (F) is of more relative importance than either (A), (D), or (G), in which case check "false" on answer sheet 3B." The physiology quizzes were nothing compared with Dr. Paul Haun's "quiz" in Psychobiology. He taught us that nothing of which we can conceive has meaning unless the meaning of one's concepts fall within the concept of meaning.

Our encounter with Dr. Parker Beamer was brief but noteworthy. The crystal-clear, informative style of his lectures will go long unremembered. He also distinguished himself with his expert marksmanship in squirting water out of windows, around corners, and over partitions onto unsuspecting freshman medical students. Oh well! To each his own!

Dr. Lide lectured to the blackboard with an ear-shattering whisper about the arrangement of beds in certain northern hospital wards. Incidentally, Dr. Lide, it was Lester Adcock who held up the LAUGH signs when you cracked your funnies. Otherwise, the back-row boys would never have known when.

The Moose lectured us on toonahs and Josh Turnage cells. Those members of the class who weren't Wake Foresters are probably still wondering what a Josh Turnage Cell is. Josh Turnage doesn't know either.

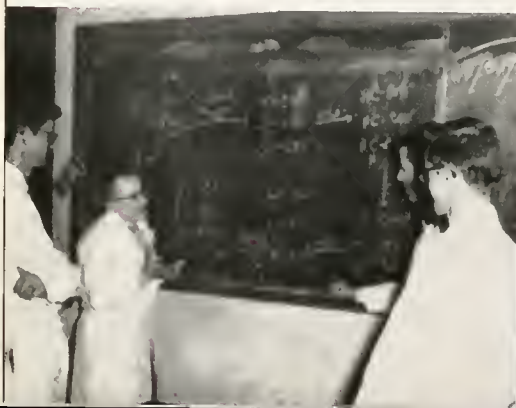

The first eight weeks of our sophomore year were most confusing. Dorothy and Bob gave us a series of well-outlined, interesting lectures, in utmost defiance of all academic traditions. We had almost adapted ourselves to these when we went into the "Fabulous Fourteen" and reverted to a more normal pattern.

Those last fourteen weeks of physiology and pathology were indeed a baptism of fire, convincing us that we could stand up under any sort of stress. However, it is not unlikely that that year's cancer symposium saved us from adrenal collapse as well as a pathology final.

The spring quarter of the sophomore year was different. We leisurely went about learning the proper methods of percussion, doing CBC's, and washing lampblack off our hands while blindfolded. It was a great quarter until the final week. Then came the deluge—quizzes by the plethora. Maybe posterity will devise some method whereby final exams can be held early in a quarter and leave the rest of the time to enjoy the work in a non-spastic manner. At any rate, an immortal statement was made that week by Dr. Emery Miller: "Dr. Prichard assures me that anyone who spells his name correctly will pass History of Medicine." Seventeen flunked.

State Boards (Part I) were the next hurdle. They weren't so tough! We celebrated this milestone in diverse ways, but mostly by getting married. The ranks of bachelorhood were so irreparably decimated that Edmonds and Fowler began to suspect strongly that they would be the only two to solo out of medical school.

We started the clinical years in an enthusiastic, yet apprehensive manner, for the changing into "whites" and working with patients was the most radical departure yet from the old accustomed academic routine. Doubtless it would have been easier for us, doing those first venipunctures, had we realized that the patients were much more frightened than we.

On junior surgery we learned how to hold retractors and how best to withstand the unbridled fury of an irate Miss Shirley. We saw our first hot abdomens, pneumonectomies, and craniotomies, but found that our place on the team was more in the line of cell counters and fluid starters.

The junior medicine quarter was marked by the usual "requests" on new patients from the resident staff, e.g.: "Hx, P.E., CBC, Urinalysis, BUN, FBS, CO₂, Cl, TSP & A/G, Stool for O. & P., L.E. prep X 3, Venous Pressure & Circ. Times, BSP, ESR, Retic., Rimpl-Leeedes, PSP, and Daily Sputum Collections for Gen., AFB, and Fung. smears and cultures." In our spare time we attended ward classes, clinics, and had oral quizzes. Of the latter, much has been written and spoken, every word of which is true, therefore nothing more need be added.

In the specialties quarter we had the honor of being the first class to "lecture" in OB-GYN, while the prof. sat back and listened, occasionally injecting a choice comment about "fungicidal infections" or breech presentations. Amazingly enough, we weren't the last.

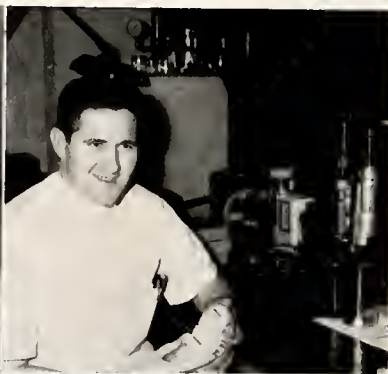

On urology that quarter, the national president of the Student American Medical Association had the first of many skirmishes with that brilliant and inspiring house staff, whose motto later became, "Now there's just so much work that has to be done, etc., etc."

The senior year is viewed from much too close for a proper perspective, but even so, there are a few experiences which seem particularly outstanding. Working in the out-patient clinic was something new, as was the privilege of working directly with the attending staff members on their own patients. It seems that the senior year had fewer crises, less drudgery, and more compensations than the other three years. None of us groaned about the paucity of lab work and quizzes. Doubtless, after we are graduated and scattered, the memories of medical school most easily brought to mind will be of that last, relatively leisurely year, rather than the sleepless, tooth-and-nail preclinical years, or the third year clinical flunkysnip.

Thus ends the history of the Class of 1956, and the ending is rather a beginning, for it yet remains for our class to prove itself worthy in the profession of its choosing.

The above, and the president and representative of each class constitute the Executive Council.

JACK BELT, U. of Oregon, National SAMA President; and JOHN OATES, Bowman Gray, Past National SAMA President, Chairman of the SAMA Foundation, SAMA Executive Councilor, and member of the Board of Directors of the National Internship Matching Program.

The Bowman Gray Student Medical Society was formed in the spring of 1954 by the incorporation of the Student Body Organization and the local chapter of the Student American Medical Association. Under the guidance of its advisors, it functions to provide student government, to facilitate curricular and extra-curricular activities, to maintain a high standard of professional honor among the students, to contribute to the welfare and education of its members, and to integrate with the Student American Medical Association.

Committees

BOARD OF PUBLICATIONS

Chairman: Hervey Kornegay.

Members: David Drylie, Byron Smitherman, Lester Adcock, Henry Johnson.

This board is responsible for all matters pertaining to the publication of the Journal of the Bouman Gray School of Medicine and the Gray and White Matter.

INTERNSHIP COMMITTEE

Chairman: John Keonard.

Members: Bill Howard, LeRoy Kewan, Mary Rountree.

This committee is responsible for obtaining information concerning various internships and for maintaining organization of the internship files.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

Chairman: Joe Ward.

Members: Louis Daniel, Earl Parker, Cecil Rhodes.

This committee is responsible for arrangement and management of all social functions, primarily the freshman party and the senior dance.

CURRICULUM COMMITTEE

Chairman: John Taylor.

Members: David Drylie, John Oates, Charles Duckett, Carltoo Everhart, Claude Hollingsworth.

The purpose of this committee is to correlate and organize student opinions regarding the curriculum and to work with the faculty curriculum committee toward the improvement of the curriculum.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE

Chairman: Tom Miller.

Members: Jack Drummond, Frank White, Hervey Kornegay, Lowell York, Buck Rish.

This committee handles all matters of publicity, including publicity of meetings and social functions, the maintenance of the B.G.S.M.S. calendar, the preparation of the annual report of the executive council, and the management of public relations.

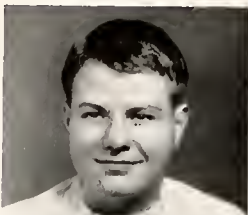

FRESHMAN ORIENTATION

Chairman: Glen Garrison.

Members: Jack Billings, Jack Rogers, David Wright.

This committee is responsible for a program which assists in orienting the freshmen and, thereafter, remains of service to them.

PROGRAM COMMITTEE

Chairman: Hervey Kornegay.

Members: Frank White, Earl Parker, William Myers, Albert Hale.

This committee plans and manages all programs (including student C.P.C.'s), both educational and entertaining in nature.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Chairman: C. P. Deal.

Members: John Taylor, Charles Duckett.

This committee is responsible for the collection of all dues and has control over all funds of the organization.

ATHLETIC COMMITTEE

Chairman: Bill Hedrick.

Members: Earnest Stines, Cecil Milton.

This committee manages the athletic equipment and activities provided by the society.

Executive Council

HONOR COMMITTEE

This committee is composed of the executive council and two faculty members. Its purpose lies in the trial and punishment of students who commit misdemeanors or infractions in the school, hospital, or elsewhere on the campus.

STUDENT HEALTH COMMITTEE

Chairman: Byron Smitherman.

Members: Hugh Napper, Phil Sellers.

This committee functions with the faculty-student health committee to provide adequate health service to the students.

INSURANCE COMMITTEE

Chairman: David Smith.

Member: Manus Spanier.

This committee functions to promote SAMA life and hospitalization insurance.

The Gray Matter

The GRAY MATTER is produced by the Publications Board of the Bowman Gray Student Medical Society. It is somewhat unique in that it is one of the few school annuals in the country devoted entirely to a medical school and associated nursing school: most medical schools only having a small section within a university annual.

The editor wishes to thank the Publications Board, the Faculty Advisor, the Department of Medical Illustration, the Controller's office, and the staff for their fine cooperation in producing this annual.

On April 26, 1955, the constitution of the Fredrick R. Taylor History of Medicine Society was presented to interested people associated with the Bowman Gray School of Medicine. This marked the formation and initial meeting of the society whose purpose was to further interest in the history of medicine.

The Society was named for the late Fredrick R. Taylor in recognition of his long-time interest in the subject and his awareness of its value to the student of medicine.

The Society plans and conducts programs about the history of medicine and makes available literature on the subject.

In this, the 1956 WHITE MATTER, we present our world in which we the students play many parts. We are the stars, the supporting cast and the understudies. Just as a professional play depends upon minute details and countless unnamed persons for success, so does our school need the help of every single member of its cast for a smooth production. No one is unimportant, no one is all-important, for everyone has a role. There are those who direct, those who perform, and those who are content to work behind scenes without special recognition. The pages of this volume, then, are a reflection of our life.

Miss Bertie Baise

We can dedicate only a book
She has dedicated her life

No man can be happy in total idleness; for life affords no higher pleasure than that of surmounting difficulties, passing from one step of success to another, forming new wishes and seeing them gratified. He that labours in any great or laudable undertaking has his fatigues first supported by hope, and afterwards rewarded by joy; he is always moving to a certain end, and when he has attained it, an end more distant invites him to a new pursuit.

With deepest gratitude and appreciation we present the 1956 WHITE MATTER to Miss Bettie Baise in recognition of her never-ending service and love for student nurses.

Last Will and Testament

We, the Senior Class of the North Carolina Baptist Hospital School of Nursing, city of Winston-Salem, county of Forsyth, having passed through three long hard years of struggle, and having in this time, come into possession of a vast collection of material holdings, being of sound mind and perfect memory; do hereby will and bequeath the following items:

- Minerva Beasley: Her ability to keep a secret to anyone who needs it.
- Janet Belote: Third west to the birds. Anybody want to flip, flop, or fly?
- LaVenta Berry: Her contagious smile to all sourpusses.
- Jane Bradner and Joan Spikes: Their inside knowledge of the State Capitol to two innocent juniors.
- Pat Brown: Her love for bluejeans, hard work and the Marines.
- Murlean Bryant: Has nothing to leave; so she's taking it with her.
- Bobbie Bunn: Her individuality to anyone who can take it.
- Peggy Carlton: Leaves - taking her love for fire escapes with her.
- Betty Carter and Annette Devier: Their ability to diet to those who need to.
- Mary Casey: Success and happiness to those who remain.
- Delores Cox: Her ability to get off Pediatrics on time to the head nurses.
- Grace Daniel: Her love for Beethoven, pizza, and college basketball to Jerri Robertson.
- Cozy Duncan: The name "Anne" to those going to the "Hill".
- Flora Elkins: Her intense trust in men to Frances Horn.
- Selma Gibson: Being absent of mind and present of body forgot to leave.
- Peggy Goode: Her ability to manipulate her flirtatious eyebrows to any deserving person with a capable tutor.
- June Griffith: Her intense desire to follow doctors' orders to the instructors.
- Sue Hayes: Her meticulous manner to the rising juniors.
- Maggie Hill: The Seniors extra million dollars to the incoming seniors.
- Dosie Holt: The business manager's task to anyone who is more business minded than she.
- Joyce Jackson: Her unique first step in preparing a patient for a pelvic to the next edition of the procedure book-Huh, Joyce?
- Joyce Jolley: Her love for bell bottom trousers to anyone lucky enough to catch one.
- Willa Lewis: Ability to have some of the happiest and saddest moments anyone can have to any student who thinks her life is monotonous.
- Dot Little: Her giggles to the next occupant of room 329; so Mrs. Williams will continue to get her daily exercise.
- Betty Loftin: Leaves to keep house.
- Moe Lyday: Remains of her size 40 uniforms to Pauline Funaki with hopes that they fit.
- Charlotte McQueen: One o'clocks for all Phi Chi and Phi Rho affairs and two o'clocks for the big quarter formal dances. Get 'em, girls!
- Phyllis Martin: Her records to the Credit Association.
- Alice Miller: The position she has on the chorus line to Barbara Wilkerson.
- Jeanette Morgan: Her calm manner and pleasing personality to all juniors and preclinicals.
- Margaret Nealey: Her music to those with an appreciative ear at 3 A.M.
- Carol Pearson: Her car keys to anyone lucky enough to be off on Saturday night.
- Edith Randall: Her exuberant moments.
- Leila Smith: Her love for O.B. to anyone with shaky knees.
- Nancy Smith: Leaves N.C.B.H., because she's a dare-devil.
- Iris Scott: Her ferrous sulfate to the babies in the "Premey".
- Peggy Shore: Her quiet ways to Betty Sue Goodson.
- Mallie Silvey: Her stately manner to Janice Walters.
- Barbara Sugg: Her haphazard ways to Billie Jo White.
- Suedel Stoneman: Her endless days and sleepless nights to all students who do not enjoy sleeping.
- Joan Summerlin: Leaves her wide belts to the oversized.
- Lavinia Wade: Size 34 short uniforms to Van Poole in order to create a better interest in good nursing care.
- Juanita Webster: Her position as quarterback on the team to any capable person.
- Betty White: The laundry chute to any uprising senior whose big feet can keep her out as well as hers have.
- Jane Wood: That everburning torch to anyone so unlucky.

Three Year Performance

Living day by day, and having life's young carefree feeling, one knows not where the foot-steps of time shall guide his path, neither tomorrow nor the following tomorrows. As the door opens from one phase of life to another, we, too, move forward with maturity and knowledge. This has been the most outstanding phase of our lives and we, as seniors, now repeat it to you.

In the fall of nineteen-hundred and fifty-three, seventy young, carefree, wide-eyed girls, full of curiosity and with a desire to help the sick, entered the N. C. Baptist Hospital School of Nursing. Having been orientated to the great "Halls of Healing", we immediately familiarized ourselves with closed study. To some of us this was time set aside to play bridge, knit and write letters; but we were soon to pay by burning midnight oil—cramming for nursing arts, chemistry, anatomy and many others.

With Christmas around the corner, we looked forward to one week of vacation and one week of ward work without having to rush to class. Books, studies, and classes were put away with lock and key. Though still new in the profession we tried to act like dignified seniors. Then came the notorious expression—"God grant me patience, strength, and understanding."

During the early months of 1954 everyone was happy to know we had a new "Ptomaine Tavern." Our new cafeteria opened and was welcomed; because the three symptoms—nausea, vomiting and diarrhea had taken their toll.

Anxiously, we waited for May and our reward, which was to come in the form of a white cap. Finally, the day arrived—May 28, 1954. We assembled on the front steps at Ardmore Baptist Church and there anticipated the excitement and joy within, which comes with newly capped student nurses. Parents filled the church with smiling, proud faces. After the capping a reception followed in the cafeteria where we were the celebrities.

At last, though only freshmen, we worked the full eight hour day, excluding classes. What a wonderful feeling! As summer progressed, we flocked to the shuffleboard beach—popular to nurses and exposed to one-half the hospital. Incidentally, the patients enjoyed the view as well as we enjoyed the beach.

Vacation time rolled around and we again departed to all points on the globe. Two weeks were the limit, but how did a certain four girls rate two months? Wonder if that was thoroughly investigated?

Again assembling for classes in the fall we found there were diamonds floating around. Mallie began the parade of marriages that was soon to follow. Now, as juniors, we experienced many happenings. We began specialties—operating room, pediatrics, and obstetrics. Alice Miller was elected secretary of the State Student Nurses Association. Unusual happenings occurred on the wards. Moe found she couldn't dissolve Demerol tablets, June picked an area of skin unwisely and Bobbie and Peggy learned to manipulate a foster frame with their eyes closed.

Yes, it was a wonderful year, but it was not all work. We began thinking about the Junior-Senior. This thought brought with it the need for money. We planned a square dance which everyone enjoyed. In the early spring, we put much planning into a talent show where there was student participation. Dr. Prince was M.C. and did a great job. Finally, on May seventh we presented the Junior-Senior to the senior class. Incidentally, Joan, you did a fine job planning the dance. We were proud to be able to have a banquet preceding the dance.

Again time held the upper hand. During the summer months more marriages took place and vacations were enjoyed to the fullest. We knew that in the early fall we would receive an addition to our caps in the form of a small black band. At our black band supper we couldn't have been happier. This point in our careers signified that we could see our goal just over the horizon. Also, we found Miss Bettie Baise was to return to our school after an absence of one year. Some people wondered why we were all smiles.

Then each, in turn, began our psychiatric affiliation at Dix Hill. Tales from upperclassmen had, of course, reached us. An anticipation of what was to come enthralled each of us. Those days shall never be forgotten but remembered with a smile.

In the months that were to follow we realized the responsibility that was to be placed on us. Then, we acknowledged the position we were about to fill. Yes, maturity had been reached. Seriousness replaced a carefree manner.

What will happen tomorrow and in the following tomorrows is still a mystery. Some of us will go on with studying to attain another goal—others will be satisfied with the present. There is no greater satisfaction than knowing we can help others. For this we shall always be proud.

House Mothers

At last we have the opportunity to express our appreciation for the many steps you have made for or because of us. Mrs. Helsabeck, trying to get her "girlies" to bed on time; Mrs. Chambers, filling the Coke machine, running up and down the steps seeing that everything was progressing as it should; and Mrs. Williams, letting the girls in at all hours of the night, since we never could manage to get off duty on time or someone had to have a "stat" operation, are just a few of the moments we will always cherish. Thank you for helping make our stay at dear ole N.C.B.H. a pleasant one.

For MILDNESS...for FLAVOR...for MORE PURE PLEASURE...

CAMELS AGREE WITH MORE PEOPLE THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE!

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Find out why. Make the 30-day mildness test!

Get acquainted with the cool
mildness, the richer flavor of Camels' costly tobaccos.
Smoke only Camels for 30 days and see what you've been missing!

To the Class of '56 . . .

With sincere appreciation of the trust placed in us by the Physicians, Nurses and Institutions which for more than ninety-eight years we have been privileged to serve, we bespeak for you as you launch upon your careers of service to mankind, the same full share of public confidence and trust which has inspired us to greater efforts all through the years.

May you always "Look up and not down—forward and not backward"—and may your guiding light be "First consideration for others."

"Paid Vacation!"

No! Not for you, Doctor—only a few members of the medical profession find their way into private industry—with paid vacations—sick leave—and disability compensation. And more important—what about the permanent vacation when you reach 60 or 65?

You must rely on your own initiative and wise planning to provide for the day when income stops. You want a good plan—a sound plan—and guaranteed results. A plan like the one below is just what you have been looking for! (You can guarantee your option on this plan for the next four years for 10 to 15% of the deposit shown below.)

AGE	ANNUAL DEPOSIT	MONTHLY DISABILITY INCOME	MONTHLY RETIREMENT INCOME (AGE 60)
20	$394.40	$100.00	$100.00
25	462.80	100.00	100.00
30	555.90	100.00	100.00
